Official Style Guide 2013

Brand Essence

HostGator.com has a distinct brand essence: inviting, clean, playful, and fun. This brand essence can be seen in everything from the designs created for our customer facing products as well as internal projects.

Web hosting should be inviting to those unfamiliar with it. It is new territory for many people, and getting them online is important for the internet community.

A clean, illustrated look can be found throughout all of HostGator's designs. The backgrounds tend to have no outlines and feature many gradients to add depth, while characters use outlines and solid colors to draw the eye. Designs should be simple and efficient, but with enough character for the project to not look barren.

Snappy allows designers to implement a playfulness many other companies can not, using costumes, positioning, props, and more to create interesting and enticing scenes.

The primary design choice of HostGator.com is to make Web Hosting look fun. Our designs try to exude that feel to the viewer.

04 Logo Usage Do's

The Full Color HostGator Horizontal logo should be used in most instances. The only times that the full logo should not be employed is if Snappy is present somewhere else in the image. If Snappy is in the image somewhere else, it is standard to remove him from the logo and just use the textmark logo.

When over the sky, the textmark logo should have a navy blue outline with navy words, however, when over any other color the textmark should always have black outlines.

The logo should almost always be over white, whether the white be a solid block, a gradient, or partially transparent. Exceptions can be found when the gator is doing something else in the scene (as stated above) which lets the text mark be placed on lighter colors, like blue sky. If the logo needs to be over black, the following example should be used, never outline HostGator.com over black.

The only time the official logo has a different color is during breast cancer awareness month where the gator can be pink. The gator can also be swapped out with a holiday specific gator on holidays on the HostGator header.

When the logo needs to be small, the color stacked or horizontal tiny logo can be used depending on the space available. When the logo is required to be exceptionally small, the tiny black and white is the best option as it is the most legible.

05 Logo Usage Don'ts

The full logo should rarely be used off of a white background (the only real reason to do this is for print on merchandise, such as shirts or bags). Never add white to the logo to make it stand out against black.

Never have a Snappy in the logo if he is also somewhere on the same page. Having two gators in the same image is repetitious and looks unprofessional.

Snappy should always be the given blue barring special holiday circumstances like breast cancer awareness month where Snappy is pink.

The full size logos should not be used for very small usages, instead, use a Tiny size as they will be more legible. When dealing with very small logos, do not use the color tiny images, as Snappy will look mushy and the colors won't look clean.
